Chairman Message

Dear Members!

Let me begin with wishing you all a happy and prosperous new financial year. As chartered accountants we are more concerned with the financial year than calendar year. And as considering the global pandemic of coronavirus all the compliances and also bank audits have been postponed and it is highly recommended to be safe and stay at home during lockdowns.

Unlike the other professions of medicine or engineering, CA has some uniqueness. It is unique in that it has to cater to the diverse, different and at times opposing needs or expectations of different groups/ service recipients like the government, clients and the public at large at the same time. At times, a CA may be called upon to report against his clients from whom he takes fees as remuneration, which is his livelihood. This requires grit, determination and an inner zeal to uphold the professional ethics. Let us resolve to uphold the highest of integrity in discharging our professional assignments. Let us resolve to upgrade our professional skills and knowledge during this lockdown, which is essential to raise the standard of our professional services.

In the month of April various webinar were conducted on topics like Bank Audit, GST, Income Tax, Implication of Covid 19, How to use excel effectively etc. Approximately more than 15 Webinar were conducted in March on 5 different Platforms for benefit of members. First time Akola Branch jointly organized webinar with various branches of WIRC for Mutual Benefit of all.

I urge to all members to kindly fill Members enrolment form by visiting branch website as we are updating members directory.

I also request members to contribute to branch activities by way of effective suggestions and innovative thoughts for the benefit of members at large. Wishing all the members a very best of luck for their upcoming Endeavour

I heartily conclude, my message with the best wishes
Stay safe Stay at home

Editorial Message

It's a 2nd Month of lockdown. The COVID-19 pandemic is creating dramatic and daily evolving changes with profound impacts on people's lives worldwide. We recognize how challenging these times are as we all navigate the burdens imposed by the COVID-19. The crisis and the changes associated with it will likely have a profound effect on our own field.

Please take this opportunity as a challenge, which has come as an unprecedented way to connect with people. Please keep a positive mind set and keep each other's spirit up

Given these imperatives, maintaining the journal's success through this challenging time is a key priority for us and the wider practice, policy and academic communities. The editorial team has already put a lot of thought into how to achieve this goal and will continue to do so in the weeks and months to come.

Most of all we hope you, your families, your colleagues and your communities remain safe and well.

Point of View – Corona Warriors Special Interaction Series

HEALTHCARE PROFESSIONALS:

An interaction to understand the point of view of doctors who are the frontrunners in the war against COVID-19. We are extremely grateful to Dr. Tapasya V. Bharati [MBBS, DNB (Pathology)] who is presently working at Government Medical College, Akola for sparing her valuable time and sharing some valuable information on the COVID-19 with us.

- Q1 – Nobody in this world was ready to face this pandemic challenge. Given a very short response time, how did the medical fraternity prepare itself in your view?
- A. Doctors from all the different fields and other medical and paramedical staff were diverted for the COVID duties, which made sure that 24*7 the medical service was provided. In this way it was ensured that not a single person with related symptoms was left unattended.
- Q2 – What is the importance of testing in this pandemic?
- A. As the initial symptoms of COVID-19 are similar to seasonal cough and cold that every other individual suffers from, accurate testing is needed to confirm the diagnosis and to start the proper treatment.
- Q3 – Can you please elaborate the procedure of tests carried out? Also how much time does it take to get the test results on an average?
- A. It is the test with complex procedure named as Polymerase Chain Reaction (PCR). It is a method widely used in molecular biology to rapidly make millions to billions of copies of a specific DNA sample, allowing doctors to take a very small sample of DNA and amplify it to a large enough amount to study in detail. In short helps to detect the presence of viral DNA in the sample (swab from the throat is taken). On an average it takes 24-48 hours to release the report.
- Q4 – Is it possible for people, in general, to self-diagnose themselves for COVID-19? If so, what are the methods of doing it?
- A. Initial symptoms are similar to that of seasonal cold and cough. However fever that worsens along with breathlessness plus the contact with suspected or confirm positive patient can be alarming and in these kind of situations, people should approach immediately for the proper test.
- Q5 – What are the observed symptoms in patients so far? What would be the right time for people to seek medical attention?
- A. Fever, cold, dry cough, breathlessness, fatigue are the commonly observed symptoms. People with worsening of symptoms like increased breathlessness and/or contact history should approach for the medical attention without any hesitation and delay.

Q6 – There is a lot of hue and cry in news about asymptomatic patients and carriers. Please share your views in this regard.

A. Yes. Asymptomatic patients are the one who display no visible symptoms but can spread the disease in community. Hence prevention is the best cure for the time being. It is advisable that one should prevent himself or herself from getting into contact with other people, should observe social distancing and if it calls to go out for any task please ensure that the face mask is put on.

Q7 – What are the basic preventive measures you would recommend to people when the lockdown gets over and people plan to resume their work?

A. As said above, prevention is the best cure for now till the time we have drugs to combat the disease. We need to follow the principle of social distancing, proper hand wash, usage of face masks and cleanliness of belongings and surrounding. Avoiding unnecessary social contact and gatherings for some more time would help achieve the objective and keep the increase in number of patients in check even if the lockdown is eased off.

Q8 – What are the common problems faced by you in the field while treating patients?

A. Availability of PPE's, Contact Tracing, Isolation of patients and other such similar problems were faced initially. However, things are improving with each passing day.

Q9 – What appeal would you want to make for the civilians so that it becomes easy for the corona warriors to manage the situation in a better way.

A. Even if the lockdown is lifted, one should not move out of the house for unnecessary reasons and above said preventive measures should be followed strictly. This way the contact tracing would become easy and number of patients will be in control. We should remember that we are a densely populated country and if community spread begins in our country with a free movement of people around, it would be an impossible situation to control and cover.

Q10 – Any other specific message which you wish to convey apart for responses to above questions?

A. Be careful and be safe. Think of your family, do not socialize more, follow the rules and help the Nation.

Point of View – A Corona Warriors Interactive Series

- Q1. What was the plan of action for the RTO department when lockdown was imposed?
- A. Lockdown was imposed all of sudden. We had the same challenges like everyone else. We should remember that there are many essential activities like milk supply, groceries supply, vegetable and fruit supply which cannot be halted. The plan was to effectively manage and check that only people allowed according to government orders are commuting and others are following lockdown.
- Q2. What are the biggest challenges faced during lockdown?
- A. Many people were found violating the lockdown without a valid reason. People did not seem to understand the importance of lockdown and this was the biggest challenge for our teams. Other than this, the major difficulty was being out on the roads away from family in the hot summers. As you know, summers in our city are very cumbersome to handle.
- Q3. What are your expectations from civilians in this pandemic scenario?
- A. We expect people to follow the directions issued by the Central and State government from time to time. Our only appeal to civilians is to be inside their homes and do not undertake any unnecessary travel. This will help in maintaining the order and keeping the number of patients down.
- Q4. Is the department ready for opening of lockdown situation? If so, what are the guidelines for the same?
- A. Yes we are ready for the situation when lockdown is lifted. Initially there will be a lot of pressure on us as the traffic movement is expected to be more than usual. We will have to exercise extra caution while dispensing out duties. Although there are no specific guidelines issued in this regard as of now, but most of it would be on the similar lines as discussed above.
- Q5. What are the precautions that the department and the personnel is exercising while they are on duty?
- A. We understand that we need to keep ourselves safe while we are on duty on the roads. All the traffic personnel have been supplied with face masks and gloves who are on the active duty. We maintain and advocate to maintain social distancing while we are out on duty.

THE COVID CONUNDRUM AND WAY FORWARD...

We all have been hearing this iconic dialogue from Bollywood – “EkChutkiSindoorkiKeemat Tum Kya Jano....”. And if it should devolve to mathematics and calculating weight, what the world is fighting now is roughly 1gram of Novel Coronavirus! Now we can imagine what cost is being paid by the entire world for this 1 gram of virus.

Before 2019, the world was running in its routine order of chasing growth on a year-on-year basis. Aspects like environment, nature, work life balance etc. had been kept at bay while we were busy achieving in this rat race. These aspects are the flavors of sustainability and growth without sustainability is not real growth. The debate on natural occurrence or creation of virus cannot overshadow the aspect of sustainability anymore!

Having said that, I believe, a new world order is already on cards. The COVID-19 situation has essentially changed our perceptions and as mankind, we are now forced to adapt. Now before we decide to evolve, let us understand this situation in a better manner with the help of few examples. Let us try to understand the IT industry.

India has always been one of the pioneer nations in supplying talent to the IT industry. India is the leading sourcing destination across the world, accounting for approximately 55 per cent market share of the US$ 185-190 billion global services sourcing business in 2017-18. Indian IT &ITeS companies have set up over 1,000 global delivery centres in about 80 countries across the world. IT industry employs roughly 4.1 million people as of financial year 2019. India is the topmost offshoring destination for IT companies across the world. Having proven its capabilities in delivering both on-shore and off-shore services to global clients, emerging technologies now offer an entire new gamut of opportunities for top IT firms in India. Export revenue of the industry is expected to grow 7-9 per cent year-on-year basis.

Everything was going smooth until the world was hit with a standstill which now has forced an introspection. Technology is incomplete without humans working around it. Work, however, never stopped. People are now working from home. Essential meetings are now being held using various e-meeting platforms. The equipment needed to work from home was also not invented after the virus outbreak. So the real question here is – “Were we waiting to deploy all this technology in case of emergency only?”

Popular IT companies are now working on the plans, to enable work-from-home to most of their employees in near visible future. With availability of technology and equipment, it was only the mindset that was missing in the entire picture to make distance working a possibility. Thanks to COVID-19, we will now witness a paradigm shift in the ways of working in the IT industry.

Examples pave the way of smooth implementation. Let us try and apply this to our profession now.

We are a fraternity with our existence in the country even before our country adopted its constitution. Our deep rooted experience and relentless service has always benefitted the nation and we've stood by with the nation in its testing times.

Our government has entrusted us with a huge responsibility of vouching for its finances and hence a lot of things in the economic ecosystem do not function without us.

Hence, it is time when we, as Chartered Accountants, should also introspect the way we have been working in the past and evolve with it. Sadly, there is a significant geography in this country where CA's as professionals have still not adopted the technology to its fullest which significantly hampers their working capabilities in such times. Although, a lot of our work requires verification of records (physically), but still there are avenues of taking recourse to digital techniques where we lack apparently. For instance, many CA's are still office-dependent for working as mobile working solutions/techniques had not been implemented. Innovative solutions like cloud computing, which have been available since a long time, can be harnessed to improve flexibility in working. Reducing dependencies on LAN-based software and working techniques can prove to be the baby-steps of this transition. Understanding and educating clients to adopt online data sharing and maintenance will also boost our business continuity planning significantly.

We also need to plan and diversify in the areas of non-conventional practice like creating space and scope for Business Continuity Planning and Disaster Recovery. We can venture into discussions with our clients and try to create sustainable business models which will benefit them even in such difficult times. A makeshift in our role as Chartered Accountants is not imminent and we need to evolve just more than consultants. It is time to join hands with the industry to pull out our economy from the depths of depression and serve the purpose of our existence in the economy.

Punjab government announced for extension of curfew till 17 May.

CSR funds can be used to fight Coronavirus

The world is at a crisis situation. We are going through a pandemic with far reaching effects not seen by anyone living today. There are thousands of people dying all over the world and the numbers may soon reach lakhs. The effect is not only on the lives and health of the people, but also on the economy since the Governments have declared lockdown and curfew in several cities and industries and offices have been shut down. With no cure, yet discovered, the only way to prevent the disease is to stay indoors and social distancing.

The Government of India is taking many initiatives to control the spread of the disease. We are at the Stage 2 of the disease and serious efforts are being made to contain the disease at Stage 2 and not reach Stage 3 where the disease will spread through community contact.

The Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman, said on March 23, 2020 that "In view of the spread of novel Corona Virus in India, its declaration as pandemic by the WHO, and decision of Government of India, to treat this as notified disaster, it is hereby clarified that spending of CSR funds for Covid - 19 is eligible"

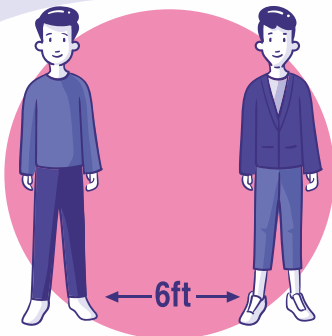

Minister of State for Finance and Corporate Affairs Anurag Singh Thakur told Lok Sabha on March 16, 2020 that a high level committee on CSR has recommended the transfer of the unspent CSR amount to a separate, designated account. "Unspent amounts, and the interest earned thereon, (have to) be spent within a period of three to five years, failing which the same be transferred to a fund to be specified by the Central Government which may be used for innovative, high impact projects related to activities," he said.

It is therefore requested that at this time of national disaster with far-reaching effects, we stand by the Government and its efforts to minimise the disaster. Some of the activities which may be undertaken may be:

1. Scientific research for development of drug for the Covid-19.
2. Manufacture and / or Distribution of kits for testing of the disease.
3. Providing Quarantine facilities to those affected
4. Mass training of nurses and paramedical staff to face the situation
5. Distribution of food and arrangement of shelter for doctors and paramedical staff.
6. Opening of sanitisation facilities (mobile and stationary) and training of workers for the same.
7. Arrangement of ambulance and corpse carriers (if required)
8. Mass supply of protective gear (gloves, caps, masks etc.)
9. Transport facilities for medical and paramedical staff and other supporting staff.
10. All facilities to be extended to urban as well as rural areas.
